District Man Sentenced to 37 Months in Prison For Bank Robbery in Southeast Washington

WASHINGTON - Timothy Brown, 28, of Washington, D.C., was sentenced today to 37 months in prison for committing a bank robbery in August 2010 in Southeast Washington, announced U.S. Attorney Ronald C. Machen Jr., James W. McJunkin, Assistant Director in Charge of the FBI's Washington, Field Office, and Cathy L. Lanier, Chief of the Metropolitan Police Department (MPD).

Brown was sentenced by the Honorable Richard W. Roberts in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia. In addition to the prison term, Brown was ordered to pay $10,449 in restitution and serve three years of supervised release upon completion of his prison sentence.

According to the government's evidence, at about 10:20 a.m. on August 26, 2010, Brown robbed a Chevy Chase Bank in the 2800 block of Alabama Avenue SE. Brown approached a teller window and handed the teller a note demanding money. The note also indicated that Brown was armed with a gun. Brown stole $10,449 from the bank.

In announcing the sentence, U.S. Attorney Machen, Assistant Director McJunkin, and Chief Lanier commended the exceptional investigative work of the FBI/MPD Violent Crimes Task Force and MPD Detective Stacey Carey. They also praised the work of the deputy United States Marshals who helped apprehend Brown. In addition, they thanked those who worked on the case for the U.S. Attorney's Office, including Legal Assistant LaToya Wade, who provided administrative support, the Asset Forfeiture and Money Laundering Section, and Assistant U.S. Attorney Catherine K. Connelly, who prosecuted this matter.
